

PANEL EVENT

Ethics in Wearable Tech

Join panelists from Strava, a leading fitness app company, and BioIntelliSense, a wearable vital signs monitoring company. This discussion will explore issues of data privacy, data protection, conflicts of interest, and more.

Panelists:

Danielle Caldwell, J.D.

Data Protection Officer, Strava

James Mault, M.D.

Founder and CEO, BioIntelliSense

Moderated by Eric G. Campbell, Ph.D.,

Professor of Medicine & Director of Research, Center for Bioethics and Humanities

Monday,
November 9, 2020

12:00 - 1:00 pm

Online via zoom

RSVP: bit.ly/techethics2020

No registration fee, open to all students, faculty, staff, and the general public

1 CPE credit hour in Ethics available from the Colorado Chapter of ACFE

CO-HOSTED BY

CU Denver Business School
CU Center for Bioethics and Humanities

DANIELS FUND
ETHICS INITIATIVE
Collegiate Program